TORREDEMBARRA •

Torredembarra, the cradle of beach soccer

Torredembarra has become one of the main tourist centers on the Catalan coast. The bonanza of its climate, the beauty of its landscape and its excellent cultural, recreational and gastronomic offer are some of the elements that make thousands of visitors not hesitate when choosing their destination and every year they bet firmly on our town, one of the epicenters of the Costa Dorada.

Beyond this varied offer, sports tourism is another branch that is gaining more and more strength in the village. A new attraction that adds to the rich and varied autochthonous associative fabric that takes advantage of this tourist demand to nourish itself and broaden horizons.

This is the case, for example, of beach soccer, which takes advantage of these seasons of greater population influx to consolidate bases that today have a long history behind them.

For nearly thirty years, Paella beach has hosted a local tournament every August that brings together hundreds of people for a week. An increasingly professional competition with a greater number of followers that not only favors the sporting health of the people, but also contributes to the improvement of local commerce and economy.

This evolution has been accompanied by the appearance of a training school, led by Llorenç Gómez, which has grown by leaps and bounds and has seen the birth and growth of high-level footballers, many of whom are currently members of the Spanish National Team.

Public authorities have been able to take advantage of this context. The 2012 season already offered the municipality as the setting for one of the regular phases of the Euro Beach Soccer League (EBSL). The experience was a complete success and led the municipal officials to repeat as hosts in 2013 and 2014, in both cases, as the venue for the Superfinal of this same competition, with the participation of more than fifteen of the best national teams.

Paella beach has also been chosen on several occasions to host the Catalonia Championships in senior and junior divisions.

An entire trajectory that makes Torredembarra the perfect setting to develop and kick off this first edition of the Llorenç Beach Soccer Cup. We intend to consolidate the town as a platform for discovering and launching young talent, at the same time that we want to contribute to the professionalization of this sports modality.

Encouraging and promoting the values of sport as well as the practice of physical activity among the youngest, attracting the greatest number of participants and spectators, and becoming an example of organizational capacity, are other objectives that we want to achieve.

Goals, all of them, to end up placing Torredembarra on the regional, national, and international map of sporting events, both at an amateur and professional level.
